Yes, that's the copy sent earlier today. Good luck to you all – hoping all is calm and reasonable over the next couple of days.

We have received about 1/2 a doz, and have incidentally mentioned it to a few more.

Your message should stop the questions. I'm not clear; has it gone out?

All the best this weekend.

Good morning to you both,

For your awareness – this message was reviewed/approved by the Chief and Deputy Chief of Protocol.

So far, we have not received any correspondence directly from any missions. We will keep you posted if we do, though, and will refer requests for protective services to POCC as usual.

The Office of Protocol of Canada would like to inform the diplomatic corps of upcoming demonstrations that may impact your operations. A convoy of trucks from across Canada will arrive in Ottawa from Friday, January 28, to Sunday, January 30, 2022. Because extensive traffic disruptions are expected, it is advisable to avoid unnecessary travel, especially in the downtown core. If you must travel, please plan ahead and expect significant delays. For real-time updates, follow the city's traffic management tool on Twitter: @Ottawa_Traffic.

Should your mission require police services in the next days, please contact 9-1-1 for emergencies and the RCMP Operational Communications Centre at [irrelevant] for protective policing services.

Le Bureau du protocole du Canada tient à informer le corps diplomatique que des manifestations sont prévues à Ottawa qui pourraient avoir un impact sur vos opérations. Un convoi de camions provenant de plusieurs régions du Canada arrivera à Ottawa entre le vendredi 28 janvier et le dimanche 30 janvier 2022. Puisque d'importants ralentissements de la circulation sont prévus, il est recommandé d'éviter les déplacements non-nécessaires, particulièrement au centre-ville. Si vous devez vous déplacer, planifiez votre itinéraire à l'avance et attendez-vous à des retards considérables. Pour des mises à jour en temps réel, suivez sur Twitter l'outil de gestion de la circulation de la ville :

@Ottawa_Circule.

Si votre mission aura besoin de service de police dans les prochains jours, veuillez contacter le 9-1-1 pour les urgences et le Centre de coordination des opérations de protection de la GRC au s.38 s.38 pour les enjeux des services de protection.
